Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 43 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Aylsworth, et al.-5890490.

Aylsworth discloses a pressure generating system for delivering breathing gas to a patient, a controller that can be preprogrammed with a patient's prescriptions to deliver gas to the patient according to the specifications of a health care practitioner. Data can be sent back and forth from the control module via modem. See col. 5 lines 12-16 and 40-54; col. 7 lines 27-29 and 61-65; col. 10 lines 59-67; col. 11 lines 1-3 and 39-41; col. 12 lines 14-18.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3761

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 6-19,21,22,27,31-33,36,39,40,44 and 47-49 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Willemot, et al.-'353.

Willemot discloses a pressure support device having a slot for receiving a memory card and patient and operating information encoded thereon. A readout displays the number of doses of medication received. Information is written from the device to the card which is then taken to a reading station to be reviewed by a healthcare practitioner. However, it is not specifically disclosed that the card has information about itself. The examiner considers it obvious to place on the card a label of how much data can be stored on the card so that a user knows if a particular patient data will be able to fit on the particular card. The examiner also contends that any memory card will have info. encoded on it with regard to the type of formatting the disk received and any potential defective areas on the disk which cannot be written to.

With regard to the claims involving the prompting the user to remove the card responsive to a predetermined condition, the predetermined condition could merely be that all the data has been written to the card. In each floppy drive there is a status busy indicator which indicates when any particular writing procedure has been completed by turning itself off. After the busy led goes out, the user knows (is prompted) to remove the card.

Willemot also discloses that the device could be used to control CPAP see col. 3 lines 47-59. Since the card is capable of controlling the medicament delivery device, it certainly would have been obvious to have modified the card to be able to control other types of medical devices, such as the ventilator which is to be used in conjunction with the disclosed medicament delivery device as well, to have a more centralized control for the total system whereby two or more controllers is unnecessary. Obviously both operating mode and operating parameters would be needed to be encoded on the card to properly control both the medicament delivery device as well as the gas delivery device.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 23,24,26,29,30,41,42,46 and 50 are allowed.

Claims 20,28,35 and 38 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 05-29-03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

As outlined above the memory card will have data about itself both on the outside to readily relay storage capacity to the user, and encoded info. regarding the specifics of the free space remaining, the type of formatting and the error zones of the disk.
